Barnesville, Ga., Jan. 24, 1928.

Mr. James J. Collier,
Jacksonville, Texas.

Dear Jim:

Your letter of January 4th came to hand, and I am having the bloomers sent to you as you requested in this letter. You will pardon the delay, as I have had so many things on me I have not hardly had time to get around.

We are just getting this Rayon Mill started up, the samples going out to the trade the first week in January. I am having the bloomers forwarded, as requested, and as near the shades you want as possible. We are sending the middle size, as I presume you want them for Lutie.

I note what you say regarding your job on a salary basis. Let me tell you right now to sit tight, as everything is in an awful condition, and it is hard to do business and make a dime; and I believe I would want until things are a little more settled before attempting a venture on your own hook. If anything turns up in Georgia where there is a good opening, I will take pleasure in advising you; but having been raised in Texas, Georgia might not suit you as a place to live.

With kind personal regards to you and Lutie and love to your Mother, I beg to remain

Yours most respectfully,

JCC:S
